JUDGE EMERY WAS A RESIDENT OF BOSTON

Chief Justice Rugg So Decides in Will Contest Made by Children.

According to a decision handed down by chief justice Rugg of the Massachusetts supreme court today, the legal domicile of late Judge Samuel W. Emery was in Boston at the time of his death in November 1912. This is the outcome of the case which hisson and two daughters appealed to the Massachusetts courts praying for a transfer of probate from the court of that state to the Boston probate court on the ground that their father was not a legal resident of Boston at the time of his death. The estate is said to be worth $50,000.

DON'T LIKE FARMING.

Joe Rossi Escapes from the County Institution.

Joseph Rossi, one of the North End residents, who was lately sent to the county farm for a term of four months, only stayed a few weeks at the college. Joseph didn't believe in working in the heated season, and especially when there is no pay envelope coming his way on Saturday night. The police fear that if Joe gets back in his old haunts here he is liable to make a lot of trouble.

BOLD HIGHWAYMEN.

Hold Up Electric Car on Palmer Line Last Night.

Palmer, July 28.—Two masked highwaymen armed with revolvers held up an electric car on the Palmer-Monson line of the Springfield & Eastern street railroad company at a lonely spot two and a half miles from this town to night.

Conductor McManus grappled with one of the men when a demand was made for money and during the fight

SECRETARY SAYS BANKERS IN PLOT

Charges Conspiracy to Lower United States Bonds in Effort to Kill
Currency Bill

Washington, July 28.—Secretary McAdoo issued a statement tonight fully charging that the decline of government 2 per cent bonds to 95 1-2, a new record, was due almost wholly to what appears to be a campaign waged with every indication of concerted action on the part of a number of influential New York city banks to cause apprehension and uneasiness about these bonds in order to help them in every effort to defeat the currency bill. Banks throughout the country own almost $730,852,120 of the two per cents. Their market value today was approximately $30,000,000, less than when the banks bought them. Almost the entire issues used as security for National banknotes. At the present price however, the discrepancy between the market value and the issues of notes against the bonds is covered by what is known as the 5 per cent reduction funds, deposited by the banks with which followed several shots were fired, one of the bullets grazing McManus forehead.

While rounding a curve near Monson's curve, Motorman Edward Dancy saw a pile of brush on the track and brought the car to a stand still. As he did so a masked man jumped on to the platform and presented a revolver at the conductor, demanding his money.

FIND GIRL'S BODY WITH THROAT
CUT

Dallas, Tex., July 28.—With her throat cut, the body of Miss Florence Brown, 27 years old was found in the wash room of a local real estate office today, and within two hours 25 young white men had been arrested in suspicion. The arrests were made in a general police roundup. The police holding persons whom they could not identify.

It was believed that Miss Brown went to business at least 30 minutes before other employees of the office reported.

Edward Kinney of New York, a well known musical instructor, on Monday came in possession of the lease of Green Acre at Blunt. The lease includes all cottages, the Birkenhead and Rogers Hall. Under the lease which was granted on Tuesday, the hotel which has been closed so far this season was opened today. The lease is for the season of 1913 only.

CONGRESSMAN BATHRICK

Did Not Inspect Local Yard--In Opposition

His Opinion Not Shared by a Single Other Member

There is a member on the House Naval Committee by the name of E. R. Bathrick of Ohio, and he made the tour on the U. S. S. Mayflower as far as Portsmouth and then returned by train. He did not inspect this station with the committee as the editor of this paper saw him leave before the inspection was made, and yet he rushes into print immediately upon arrival in Washington and in opposition to Portsmouth. His opinion we are positive is not shared by any of the other members. Here is what he says, as taken from the Army and Navy Journal, which also goes out of its way to attack Portsmouth:

"Representative E. R. Bathrick, of Ohio, who as a member of the House Committee on Naval Affairs inspected the navy yards and stations on the north Atlantic coast, is inclined to favor the placing of navy yards under civilian control. He is convinced that the small yards, like Portsmouth and New London, should be abolished and the work concentrated in the larger yards. 'One of the results of my trip,' said Mr. Bathrick, 'is to convince me that the Portsmouth yard should be reduced to a naval station and the coaling station at New London abandoned. I think it would be a great measure of economy to place experienced industrial managers in charge of the large navy yards. This is the only way that the work can be systematized and placed upon a scientific basis. Navy officers, of course, should be detailed to serve at navy yards, but they should go there as students and not be placed in charge of such great industrial institutions. They have not had the experience which qualifies them to manage a large factory or industrial institution like a navy yard. Another feature of this is that in the event of war all of the high ranking and experienced naval officers would be ordered to sea, and it would be absolutely necessary to put civilians in charge of the navy yard. This would make it necessary to reorganize the forces of the yard at a time when they would be overloaded with work. It seems to me that Navy officers themselves would favor the selection of a civilian superintendent, as under his instruction they could acquire a knowledge of the various features of manufacturing naval material, which would be valuable to them when they are at sea. It might be well to have Navy officers serving as advisers to the civilian superintendent, but it appears to me that much progress toward efficiency and economy could be made through the introduction of the methods of private concerns in the navy yards. I do not say this as a reflection upon the ability of the officers of our Navy. I believe they are superior to any in the world. But this is a day of specialization, and a man cannot master both military and industrial problems at the same time.'

MEET AFTER 20 YEARS.

Two Old Time Railroad Men
Greet Each Other After Long Interim.

Engineer Fred Allen of the Boston & Maine railroad, one of the veteran runners of the road, who is now employed in the yard at Boston, was here today. Shortly after alighting from his train he met Horace P. Pickering of Malden, Mass., a former railroad man, and the two exchanged greetings. Over twenty years ago the two ran on the same train, one as engineer and the other as baggage master, and this was their first meeting for many years.

RUNAWAY BOYS.

From This City Picked Up in Jersey City by Police.

Peter Greenburg, aged 14, and Harry Levine, 13, of this city, are held by the police at Jersey City, N. J., as runaway boys. They left Portsmouth on Sunday last and said they were going to St. Louis. They had little money outside their fares to New York and the police got them wandering in the railroad yard in hopes of getting further along by freight. Levine, the oldest of the two, has been away before and when he last disappeared was found with a circus. Chief Hurley, acting under instructions from their parents ordered them sent home.

RESIGNATION IS FORECASTED

President and Ambassador Wilson
Disagree Over Course to be Persued to End Mexican Rebellion

Washington, July 28.—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, summoned from Mexico City to inform the Washington administration of conditions in the rebellion (era republic, talked for an hour with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan today, submitting chiefly a recommendation that the United States use its influence to stabilize the Mexican regime.

No policy was evolved, at least none was announced, but it became known that the president's ideas and those of Ambassador Wilson as to the course to be pursued are so radically different, that administration officials are forecasting the acceptance of Amban-

Wilson's resignation. It became known today that a movement is on foot which might eventually spare the United States the necessity of offering mediation or any other kind of intervention in Mexican affairs upon which the national pride of Mexico is sensitive. Provisional President Huerta, it is suggested under the peace plan, might be persuaded by friends that with the desperate financial condition of Mexico, his resignation would be an act of patriotism and self denial. He would be asked to name a minister of foreign relations, a post now vacant, so that through the constitutional process of succession the minister would succeed his provisional president.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR DOG

Must Have a Muzzle or Be Shot.

The board of health issued another order today notifying dog owners that unless their animals were muzzled in 24 hours they would be killed. On to this afternoon five dogs were put to death by order of the board. People complain that it will be hard work for them to muzzle their family pets. This, however, will be no excuse, so say the health officers, and the only sure way to avoid the loss of a dog is to keep it in doors. The board has not as yet heard from the head of the dog sent to the Harvard medical school for analysis.

ANOTHER FISH STORY.

Manchester Man Lands Monster Cod Off Isles of Shoals.

Charles E. Jack of 137 West Manchester street, local school agent, is not only allowing friends a view of the 25 pound cod that he captured off the Isles of Shoals, Sunday, but is also entertaining them with a story of the busy day in which a shark and whale figure.

The big fish and the antics of the aforementioned deep sea denizens formed the leading features of a merry outing on Sunday, when Mr. Jack, bearing a preventative of sea sickness suggested by Dr. William Parsons of East Manchester, and consisting of a teaspoonful of chloroform and four ounces of water, set forth from Kittery, Me., to accomplish things with cod fish as his particular prey.

"That prescription prevented me from being seasick," declared Mr. Jack today, "and you can wager that Dr. Parsons is going to have some of that gigantic cod." Then he went on:

"You see I have made several of these trips this season, but it seemed that the one we had Sunday was the most enjoyable of the lot. Our party was made up of my son, Harry Jack, who is an instructor in the machine shop of the Lowell Textile school; Reginald Jones, Charles Fernald and George H. Macanley of N. H. Bean & Co., the Portsmouth clothiers. We left Mr. Macanley's farm at Newington at 2 o'clock Sunday morning and sailed down the river to Kittery where we boarded a 36-foot twin screw, double engine motor boat.

"It was not long before we had passed the Isles of Shoals and after getting some 16 miles off shore the fishing began. My—how they came in over the side. I raised a blither getting the big fellow. It pulled just as though you had a horse attached to the line instead of a fish.

"Sometime later we saw a whale going through all manner of evolutions. He was spouting and caving and seemed to be enjoying himself in every sense. Once when we got a big fish and was drawing it in a pesky shark, six feet in length jumped up out of the water and bit the fish in two, so that all that actually came on board was the decapitated head. One of the party removed the head from the line and there was mister shark waiting for it to be tossed over to him. He got it, too.—Manchester Union.

NEW STATE ROAD DISPUTE GROWS WARMER

Governor and Council Hear
Arguments Favoring Two Routes.

Concord, July 28.—Governor Samuel D. Felton and his council, gave an extended hearing today on the proposed state road from Manchester to the Massachusetts boundary. Instead of settling definitely the route of the road, after hearing what interested parties had to say, the council decided to hear more and continued the matter until Friday morning at 11.

This afternoon at the close of the road hearing, the governor and council adjourned to the executive chambers and took under consideration the appointments to vacant state offices. The hearing lasted all the afternoon and will be resumed tomorrow morning. It is expected that the new license commission and several judges will be announced tomorrow.

Today's meeting of the honorable body was the first in ten days. All last week the governor was busy with his private legal practice. All the councillors were present and at 11 gathered in Doric Hall in the state house, to hear what was to be said about the state road.

A delegation from Londonderry was first heard. Its spokesman was former representative Rosecrans W. W. Pillsbury. He advocated a route of the road from East Manchester to the Mammoth road to Londonderry to Derry. Mammoth road he said is

DAVIS CUP COMES BACK TO AMERICA

The English Tennis Team Beaten By United States--McLaughlin Wins Match and Cup.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 28.—The United States team today recaptured the Dwight D. Davis International Lawn Tennis Trophy from England, by adding a victory by Maurice E. McLaughlin of San Francisco over Charles C. Dixon of the singles match and doubles match already won, thus gaining the three matches out of the series of five necessary to carry off the cup.

The scores in the match today were 8-6, 6-3, 6-2. The scores by points were as follows:

First Set.
McLaughlin 4 1 3 6 4 1 6 1 4 1 5
Dixon 4-44

Second Set.
McLaughlin 4 1 4 1 1 3 4 4-30
Dixon 1 4 6 2 4 2 1 2-22

Third Set.
McLaughlin 4 4 1 4 2 7 1 4-40
Dixon 2 1 0 4 5 4 0-12

This preliminary contest this year were participated in by seven nations: The United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, Germany, France, and Belgium. The United States team fought its way through to the final round, where it met and defeated Canada, and thus gained the right to challenge the English holders, whom it met and outplayed and outgeneraled.

Dixon Outclassed.

Dixon, who played in his usual form, was outclassed by McLaughlin in every department of the game except the half-volley at the net. When the final stroke had been played Dixon pushed forward and put his arms around the shoulders of the young American player, who received a great ovation from the crowd despite its obvious disapproval at the loss of the Davis Cup.

In an interview afterward, McLaughlin attributed the victory today entirely to McLaughlin's superior brilliance. He declared McLaughlin played his best game thus far in this country, especially in his ground strokes. Dixon, he said, played at the top of his form, but was no match for the all-round super-excellence of the young American.

Both Eratic in First.
McLaughlin won the first set by 8-6 after a good deal of erratic play on both sides, both men being gully. The Californian made a number of double faults, two of them in one game, while Dixon also offended in this respect. McLaughlin was not as accurate as usual. He drove many balls out and netted others, but in overhead work he was so clearly superior to his opponent that the result was never in doubt except in one game. McLaughlin then stood 30-10 on his own service, and it was thought he would lose the first set. His magnificent service, however, pulled him out of the hole.

In the second set, McLaughlin delighted his supporters with some brilliant cross-court shots and half-volleys. The result was soon a foregone conclusion. The American drove down the side lines with remarkable precision and persistence and carried off the set by 6-3.

In the third set McLaughlin began by a forceful attack on the flying victim. The Californian's driving now became accurate and his overhead work was as perfect as usual and formed a spectacular feature of the match. When the dust of battle had cleared Dixon found himself four games in arrears, none of which had gone to more than 40-15, but the great-hearted veteran never gave in, and, taking advantage of McLaughlin's erratic drives, took his own service.

McLaughlin then served, a dense game in which Dixon had vantage three times. McLaughlin, however, would not be denied. Two lightning services and a hard smash gave him the game and a lead of 6 to 1. Dixon again took his own service, but the crowd knew the end had come. When McLaughlin came to the base line for his final service he justified their verdict, given in advance, by taking the deciding set with a 40-15 game.

Details of the Match.
The detailed score of the match which clinched the cup victory for the United States is as follows:

McLaughlin:
S 4 1 3 1 4 1 5 0 17
First set 4 1 3 6 4 1 6 1 4 1 5
Second set 4 1 4 1 1 3 4 4-30
Third set 4 4 1 4 2 7 1 4-40

Parks Beats Williams.
Parks won the match with Williams by three sets to two, the scores being, 6-3, 6-7, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.

The scores by points:

First Set.
Williams 6 4 4 5 4 4 1 1-38
Parks 7 6 4 7 1 6 2 4-37

Second Set.
Williams 4 0 2 3 4 1 5 7 4 1 4-33
Parks 1 4 1 6 2 3 3 5 1 4 0 1-24

Third Set.
Williams 6 7 4 4 6 2 4 1 4 4 4-40
Parks 3 5 2 6 8 4 4 4 4 0 2-34

Fourth Set.
Williams 4 1 0 4 4 2 4 0 2 0-21
Parks 2 4 4 2 1 4 1 4 4 4-30

Fifth Set.
Williams 3 3 2 1 0 2 1 4-25
Parks 6 5 4 4 4 2 6-31

Parks won the first set by six games to two, but most of the games went to deuce. Williams was erratic and lost some crucial points by driving balls out of the court. He also made several double faults. Parks played a plodding, heady game throughout the set.

In the second set, after Parks had taken a lead of three to one the Harvard man drove level and made it four all, he then got a lead of five to four, Parks equalized with his service, and then Williams took the set in straight games. His improved greatly in this set and kept his drives within the limits.

Williams also took the third set, 7-6. He allowed the freshman to get even after leading 3-0, but then became more accurate. He kept Parks running from side to side of the court and the freshman looked weary at the end of the set.

Williams led all the way in the fourth set until the score stood at four all. Then Parks broke into the American's service and took the set on his own service when Williams netted one ball and drove out three returns.

Williams played indifferent tennis in the fifth and last set. He allowed Parks to take four straight games and then won two himself, but he seemed unable again to get into his stride. Parks was not in such good form as during his match on Friday against McLaughlin, but he played ably, allowing Williams to make substantial gains to win his points.

The Parks-Williams match was necessary in the nature of an exhibition. Parks has thus won both singles matches in which he has played, as he beat McLaughlin Friday. His victory made the total scores in the series three matches to two in favor of the United States.

E. P. Allis, New Western Golfer, Makes Record by Holing Out in One Stroke, 291 Yards Distance

Chicago, July 28.—E. P. Allis, 3rd of Milwaukee, who qualified for the final and met Walter K. Wood of Homewood for the Western golf championship after defeating Chick Adams, then champion in regard to a phenomenon. In addition to the already play that he showed in all the preliminary contests, he made a new course record by holing out the first hole, 291 yards in one stroke. This was at first claimed to be a world record, but members of the Blue Bird Country Club of Boston claim that John G. Anderson held out the sixteenth hole there Sept. 23, 1908, by a drive of 328 yards, 152 paces who saw Allis shot say that the drive was perfect and that if it had not gone into the hole it would not have rolled six inches farther.

HELD ON SUSPICION

A young man giving the name of Fred Dwyer, age 22, claiming his home in Portland, was arrested here on Monday by Officers Shannon and Kelley while pawning two watches.

He was unable to give a satisfactory account of his ownership and was held at the station pending an investigation. Dwyer claims that he has lived in Lewiston and Portland and lately has not been doing anything simply spending his money, having had $35. He claims he made this amount with circus and fairs.

The Portland and Lewiston police were notified and asked for information and Dwyer will be held until this is obtained.

HOW FAST CAN YOU SAY THIS?

A pickle peddler pushed his pushcart full of pickles over a puddle and never a passer purchased even a pickling pickle from that pushcart in the puddle as the passers passed. Perched at this, the pickle peddler pushed his pickle pushcart into a passer who, the pickle peddler, promptly punched, praying pertinently as the prostrate pickle peddler picked a pickle from his pushcart, poised and in a passion put the pickle in the passer's punch with such a punch that that poor person pointed over the puddle and on the prostrate pickle peddler's pushcart fell.

Passing inopportune, the pickle peddler needed to paste the passer who had pushed his pickle pushcart in the puddle and pertinent proposed to pickle that poor passer so that pickle peddler might a pickle pass without a passer passing even to push the pickle peddler's pushcart full of pickles over.

We pause here in this illustration of the great virtue in the letter P to remark that the only intention of this piece of pickle is to attract your attention to the fact that the great 24-page Illustrated Magazine and Story Section of the Sunday World is really the best thing in the way ever produced by a daily newspaper. ## SECRETARY SAYS BANKERS IN PLOT the treasury to care for retirements of national banknotes.

Secretary McAdoo announced that it was not his intention to require the banks to charge off the present depreciation below par, but that the banks might continue to put in the bonds at par in their statements to the Comptroller of the Currency, at least, until some material change in conditions should compel the adoption of another course. In his statement Secretary McAdoo declared the two per cents were worth par, notwithstanding their decline in the New York market, and continued: "The idea seems to be that the country banks which hold about two thirds of the 2 per cent bonds and use them as their asset for their circulating notes may be induced to unite with the New York city banks in opposition to the bill, if they can be made to believe that he proposed currency measure is going to injure these bonds and cause losses to the banks. This, is of course, unfounded."

"Meantime it is folly for any bank to sell Government 2's at a sacrifice because of any apprehended legislation adverse to Government bonds, as no such legislation will result. In the 124 years of its existence the government has kept faith scrupulously with its creditors and it is not going to change its honorable character now."

If the necessities of any bank oblige it to sell bonds at depressed prices, that, of course, is another matter—a matter solely for the bank to determine.

The secretary said that not only had nothing occurred to impair the value of the 2 per cent bonds, but the amendment already adopted by the Banking and Currency committee of the house enhances their intrinsic worth.

Because the banks and all other holders of 2 per cent bonds are given a privilege, not only possessed of exchanging the 2's for 2's without the circulation rights at the rate of 5 per cent per annum of their holdings, present or hereafter acquired. So long as they do not make the exchange they may retain the 2's and exercise the circulation privilege attached thereto.

At the end of 20 years the government will pay at par and interest all 2 per cent bonds which at that time remain outstanding. In view of the fact that the 2's have no due date and are payable after 1930 only at the option of the government, the definite promise of payment at the end of 20 years is distinctly beneficial to the holders of the 2 per cent bonds.

The secretary spoke with amusement of the grave statements sent out from New York to the effect that if the currency bill should pass and government deposits are put in the federal reserve banks, the two per cent bonds now used to secure deposits will be thrown on the market and their value thereby impaired.

As only $16,000,000 of the 2's out of a total of $730,882,330 are used to secure government deposits, it can be readily seen how trivial this is. If these bonds are not used to secure deposits they can be used for additional circulation.

Nearly all of the 2's are owned by the banks. If they rise in value it is because the banks themselves are putting pressure on the market and depressing the value of their securities. The fault is their own.

It would seem the part of good sense and good business not to do it. The secretary expressed the hope that the process, if continued, will not be carried to a point where the department will have to take action.

There is and always has been a narrow market for the 2 per cent bonds, just as there is for many inactive although high-grade corporation bonds and everyone knows how easy it is to put up or down the quotations for such bonds especially when a favorable state of mind has been skillfully created.

The department has because of its relation to the banks and it is necessarily important part in the financial affairs of the country, a deep interest in the welfare of the banks. In the stability of the financial situation and in a continuance of the prosperity now attaching to the agriculture and industrial enterprises and general business.

For these reasons the secretary said that he hoped the banks would not consider a suggestion from him impertinent.

There is nothing in the situation to warrant such a course. The banks should not put undue restraints on business. Should any unusual stringency appear, the secretary said that it could easily be met through resort to the $500,000,000 emergency currency now held in reserve, which can be issued if the banks need it by use of the resources of the treasury department or both.

In conclusion the secretary said that there is not going to be any financial trouble and that the large crops now in prospect are going to be moved without difficulty, and that the powers of the department will be exercised in their greatest amplitude for the protection of the business interests of the country.

Everything from Cellar to Roof
Cor. Green and Vaughan Streets, PortsmouthPRESIDENT WILSON
DOES NOT CONSIDER MEXICAN SITUATION SERIOUS

Washington, July 28.—President Wilson does not believe the public mind in the United States is excited over the situation in Mexico, nor is he convinced that a crisis has been reached in the revolution itself.

This information was obtained in official circles today, with an authoritative denial that any proposal looking toward a cooperation between American military forces and the Mexican Government for the restoration of peace had been suggested.

Those who approached the President today on the Mexican situation found him disinclined to discuss it, as later he was to confer with Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson. Sec. Bryan arranged to see the President before the conference. The Secretary also continued his residence on Mexican affairs.

It was learned at the White House however, that reports crediting Ambassador Wilson with having advocated a set of proposals contemplating military cooperation with Mexico or intervention were unfounded. The President has received from Ambassador Wilson an historical account of events in Mexico in the last three years.

The Ambassador himself said today he had not mentioned any remedies on the situation to any one, and had not even put on paper the plans he had in mind. He had reserved these, he said, for his personal interview with the President.

Contradictory information has reached the Washington Government regarding the stability of the Huerta administration. It was said today to be a question of reliability of informants. Officials were disinclined to infer which reports were being credited. It was said, however, that in the last 10 days there had been little or no change in the status of affairs in the southern republic.

The shooting of Charles B. Dixon Jr. at Juarez is regarded as a serious incident, but its bearing on the general Mexican situation is being minimized by officials here today, as the American demands for the investigation and punishment of the offenders apparently were being complied with. At the White House it was said the United States would pursue a course of diligent inquiry into the affairs, and would insist on summary action to the guilty.

Just before Ambassador Wilson went into conference with the President he referred, in conversation with inquiries, to the proposals for solution of the Mexican difficulty, published today and attributed to him. He dictated this statement, which he said, he was anxious to have reach the Mexican people especially.

"With reference to published proposals today, I disclaim all responsibility for them; their origin is unknown to me, and I regret that anything like them was made public."

Sec. Bryan after a call at the White House, sought information through a conference with Pres. Brown of the Mexican National Railways on traffic conditions in Mexico and their relation to the paralyzed condition of commerce and industry. Latest reports from the embassy in Mexico City have reflected the financial situation.

Senator Pomeroy called at the state department to press for attention to the case of Bernard McDonald, under sentence of death at Chihuahua. Senator Pomeroy had already taken aggressive steps for the relief of Mr. McDonald, but that no report had been received since the embassy at Mexico City and the consulate at Chihuahua had been instructed to act in McDonald's behalf.

Representative Smith of Texas asked Sec. Bryan to remove Consul Edwards at Juarez, because of his refusal to allow a party of 50 Americans to go to the relief of refugees at Madero.

A telegram received by Representative Smith today said that the Madero refugees were in momentary peril. There are 35 Americans there, 21 of whom are women and children.

The telegram charged that Consul Edwards had not properly represented the situation to the state department. Representative Smith's report and that of railroad bridges on the railroad line between Madero and El Paso have been burned or dynamited, and that bandits have threatened to kill any persons attempting to repair the line. He also urged Sec. Bryan to embargo all shipments of arms to Mexico or allow both Mexican factions to secure American guns.

ATTORNEY GENERAL
TUTTLE MAKES RULINGS
ON DISTRICT COURT

Attorney General Tuttle of Manchester, has made a ruling on several points in the new district police law, which was not at all clear in the bill passed by the legislature.

The most important question was on the question of fees and in all cases he ruled that fees will not be allowed. In the first case the clerk of court has always that is previous to the present law, been allowed fees for various things, for making all mittimus for all bound over prisoners, returns to the County Solicitor, for making writs etc. This was a considerable item for the clerks, and under the ruling it will be taken away and the clerks get but their salary. The salary in this city for instance is but $250, and considering the fact that the clerk has to attend all sessions of court which have occurred here most of the time, twice a day, make out all mittimuses, keep a record and in addition collect all fines and costs, and furnish a bond for the money he handles, it is a very small salary not half enough for the year.

Another question settled, was regarding witness fees and attendance for the officers. The law stated that the clerk of court after paying all witness fees and officer's attendance, should return the balance of the fines and costs to the County Treasurer on the first of every month. This was taken that the officers would receive witness fees and attendance for every case, and everybody saw a substantial increase to their salary coming. This has all been observed, the Attorney General ruling that no fees should be paid to officers. This has been the custom in this city and no fees were paid by Clerk Truman, pending a decision. It was the same in Manchester, but in Nashua fees were allowed, and these now will have to be paid back.

Another matter was in regarding the Probation officers of the various courts. There was no provision in the District Court bill for their being paid by the County, and it was a question which would pay, the city or county. The Attorney General ruling was that the Probation officers were officers of the District Court and as such must be paid by the County Treasurer, as the officer has jurisdiction over the district presided over by the Judge who appoints him.

There were several other minor matters put up to the Attorney General by a special committee appointed at a meeting of the District Court justices from all over the state. Judge Harvey received a copy of the rulings on Saturday, as he was a member of the committee.

PEST THREATENS
POTATO CROP

Washington, July 28.—Warning against a pest that threatens every dinner table in the land was issued today by the Department of Agriculture against the potato tuber moth, which is working havoc with the potato crop in numerous parts of the country, and whose ravages threaten to prevent the planting of the winter supply of that vegetable in many places.

The pest is especially prevalent in California and Texas, the department reports, and through shipments of early potatoes it is being introduced broadcast throughout the United States.

Experts of the Bureau of Entomology urge potato growers to look carefully over the potatoes they dig and to destroy every potato and vine that shows the slightest signs of the moth. Special attention, they say, should be given to the seed potato, on which the subsequent crop depends. Fumigation with carbon bisulphide is recommended.

The scientists offer a warning against careless methods in planting and harvesting potatoes, and declare "unless protective and defensive measures are adopted at once, there will be a serious reduction of the potato crop."

ONLY NATION WITHOUT DEBT

Panama Will Have About $600,000 in Treasury as Soon as Canal Zone Rent is Deposited.

Washington, July 28.—Panama, which claims the distinction of being the only country in the world without a foreign debt of any kind, will have a balance in its treasury of about $600,000 as soon as the first annual installment of $250,000, just paid by the United States for the use of the Canal Zone, has been deposited. Effective control over its revenues and a strict economy in expenditures have given the little republic a balanced budget amounting to $3,841,214 annually, its total invested capital is $7,085,000.

PANIC AVERTED BY HALF HOLIDAY

New York, July 27.—Seventy-five men and girls employed by Lewis, Kellow & Co., making clothes on the fifth floor of a loft building were surprised at noon today when Morris Levine head of the firm, suddenly announced that everybody would have a half holiday. They lost no time in getting down stairs and as they reached the sidewalk they saw the fire engines dash up and smoke pouring from the windows of the floor just below where they had been at work.

NO CHANCE FOR CIVILIANS IN PAY CORPS OF NAVY

Washington, July 28.—Secretary Daniels has decided that the ten vacancies in the naval pay corps shall be reserved for enlisted men of the navy, about fifty of whom have already applied for examination. Civilian candidates, who have been eligible on other occasions and who were designated to take this examination, were notified several weeks ago by Mr. Daniels that they would not be examined. This resulted in strong protest, which set forth not only the disappointment of the would-be candidates, but the fact that many of them had gone to considerable expense to prepare themselves for the competition, while some had given up paying positions for what they regarded as a certainty of qualification.

Mr. Daniels has refused to alter his decision excluding civilian candidates. He maintains that his action is in the best interests of the service. He contends that more consideration should be shown to enlisted men, and that greater inducements should be held out to recruits, with an increased chance of promotion.

Appointments to the pay corps were once confined to civilians; at another time it was decided to appoint only graduates of the Naval Academy who had failed because of minor physical qualifications as line officers, and on another occasion it was determined to transfer junior engineers to the corps of assistant paymasters. There was, however, no attraction in the appointments because of the "hump" in the pay corps. So many comparatively young officers are occupying the senior grades that promotion of juniors will be greatly retarded unless there is legislation such as the so-called "running mate bill," by which staff officers may be promoted along with their companions of the line of like date of original appointment.

Some naval pay clerks, who have been enlisted men of the yeoman class and who were discharged as such in order to become pay clerks, with the prospect of being allowed to take the examination for appointment as assistant paymasters, feel that great injustice has been done to them by the latest decision. They have had experience in the duties of the pay corps, and feel that they are entitled to enter the competition for a commission; but they cannot be examined under the Secretary's ruling, although, in some cases, with the approval of the Navy Department, the age limit has been waived by legislation, in order to give suitable reward for what is regarded by the naval authorities as meritorious individual service. About twenty of these pay clerks are considered as the most desirable from whom to make selections for the pay corps. These young men now find themselves unexpectedly deprived of an opportunity of promotion and a career for which they are very anxious. Mr. Daniels is quoted as replying to an appeal from one of these that they occupy good positions now, and should be satisfied. Mr. Daniels has refused to approve the application for retirement of several pay officers who desire to be transferred from the active list.

One Way of Treating the Subject.

Many bright girls have graduated who reside in this community. Their graduating essays were a credit to them and our schools, but for a good, sensible essay we give first honors to a young lady in a neighboring state. Her teacher gave her the subject, "Beyond the Alps lies Italy," for a graduation essay. The reading of the essay provoked enthusiastic comment for its earnest, practicability, although it may have been shy in idealism. Here it is: "I do not care a cent whether Italy lies beyond the Alps or even in Missouri. I do not expect to set the river on fire with my future career. I am glad I have a good, very good education, but I am not going to misuse it by writing poetry or essays about the future woman. It will enable me to correct the grammar of any lover I may have, should he speak of 'dörqs' in my presence, or say he went somewhere. It will always come in handy when I want to figure out how many pounds of soap a woman can get for three dozen eggs at the grocery. So I do not begrudge the time I have spent in acquiring it. But my ambitions do not fly so high. I just want to marry a man who can lick anybody in the township; who can run an eighty-acre farm, and has no female relatives to come around and try to boss the ranch. And I will agree to cook good dinners for him that won't send him to an early grave and lavish upon him a whole lot of affection and see that his razor hasn't been used to cut broom wire when he wants to shave. In view of all this I don't care if I do get a little rusty on the rule of three and kindred things as the years go by."

Where Dry Bones Are.

Charles Sumner Bird, progressive candidate for governor of Massachusetts, believes in reducing the number of state commissions. On that point he is exactly right. Everybody, on the outside, who runs for governor believes in reducing the number of commissions, but once in, if he gets in, he usually contributes an additional commission, and sometimes two or three, to the roster of commissions.

Some of the Massachusetts commissions live and move and have their being in the grandeur of their own dignity. Some of the departments in the state house should be blown and cleaned out by one of the governor's big non-union blowers, and thereafter nobody should be permitted to hold a position in that department except because of actual necessity for a competent place-holder. There are employees in the commonwealth's departments who have napped and nodded in office so long that they cannot even give civil answers to requests for information by humble taxpayers. The state house is remoter from an efficiency basis than City hall itself.

We would not abolish the state board of arbitration, although it may seem to be useless in a crisis. Only this week it has proved its value. A federal office-holder, coming here to investigate a strike in Governor Foss' boiler works, was introduced to the governor by the chairman of the board of arbitration. Thereby the board has served a useful purpose at an opportune time.—Boston Traveler.

A New Use for the Corn Cob.

Notwithstanding the increasing use of automobiles throughout the corn belt, the agricultural department is far from certain that the farmer is getting all there is in it out of the corn crop, and a new line of investigation is now being followed with a view of increasing the by-products of the cereal. The corn cob, for instance, has been thought of recently as a possible source of artificial fire material.

The Place to Be Cured.

If you have been attending the caucuses of gloom in the cities, if you have heard about tight money, tariff, ruination and busted railroads until you are obsessed by the idea that everything is fast going to the dogs, or worse, just get out in the country, God's outdoors, beautified and improved by the love and care of men, and be cured.

Being Fed for the Market.

Twenty-five hundred cattle would seem like a good sized herd to some people, yet that number leave Chicago weekly to find places in Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Illinois. The cattle are known as stockers and in the main weigh 900 to 1500 pounds apiece. They will be fed a short period and returned to the market.

Rivadavia, the Largest Battleship Ever Built, Now Ready For Her Trial Trip at Rockland, Me.

The Argentine Dreadnought Morona Rivadavia, the biggest battleship in the world, arrived at New York city recently for her final palatial preparatory to official tests. The monster vessel was launched at Quincy, Mass., Aug. 20, 1911, and her sponsor was Señora de Naon, wife of the Argentine minister to the United States. The displacement of the Rivadavia is 27,500 tons, and she has twelve twelve-inch guns, all of which can be fired at one broadside. These guns can throw a projectile which will perforate a fourteen inch thickness of cemented steel at a distance of thirty-seven and one-half miles. The dimensions of the Dreadnought are: Length, 577.5 feet; width, 95 feet. She will start on her trial trip over the government course at Rockland, Me., Aug. 12. A number of United States officers will be aboard her.

HAS SHADY PAST.

Police Say That Mordant, Accused by Girl, Is Noted Swindler.

Chicago, July 28.—That Frederick S. Mordant, publisher and member of several clubs who is accused by 17-year-old Josephine Schward of having Jack Randolph, who won her by luring easily presents an her and going through a mock marriage with her has a shady past, has been revealed to the police.

Mordant's correct name according to the records of the New York police department is M. A. Schwartz, and he served a three year term in Sing Sing for swindling girls, with stage aspirations. Those facts came out in 1912 when a police magazine, started by Mordant was in trouble on complaint of the mother of a girl he tried as an assistant editor. He confessed his identity but the case was dropped.

Schwartz was arrested in New York city in 1902 in company with Eugene Suffrage, alias Henry Williams, a New York swindler, charged with swindling young women through the electrical agency Dodge. They advertised for girls to go on the stage and swindled them out of hundreds of dollars. Schwartz was sentenced to three years, May 16, 1902, by Recorder Smith of the court of general sessions.

Inspector Byrne, in his work on noted criminals, has this to say: M. A. Schwartz, alias F. S. Mordant, swindler. Schwartz is one of the most successful rascals at large. He is well known in Chicago, Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York where he has carried on his swindling schemes.

RETURNED FROM BERLIN, GERMAN AFTER TWENTY YEARS ABSENCE

Mr. Jerry Turner, formerly of Lynn, Mass., who married Florence Irene Goodwin, made a recent visit at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary A. Philbrick Goodwin, and his uncle, Mrs. H. J. Philbrick, the late Mrs. Turner.

Mr. Turner has returned to this country after an absence of about 20 years where he went as an instructor in electrical science.

A sad circumstance of his saddest was the death of his dearly beloved wife and little son Ernest, whose remains are still in Germany. Since his return Mr. Turner has entered the service of the General Electric Company of Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Turner was a young woman possessing a very pleasant personality and made hosts of friends wherever she went. She was a member of St. John's church of this city. It is needless to say that Mrs. Goodwin was delighted to see her son in law, after so long an absence.

JAPAN'S SILENCE PLEASES WILSON

Washington, July 28.—No reply has yet been received by the administration from Japan to its last note regarding the California land situation. This has encouraged the President and Secretary of State Bryan to believe that the end of the prolonged exchange of views is at hand, and today was accepted as the first diplomatic victory of the Wilson administration. The position of the President from the outset has been that all that was necessary to reach a common understanding was disappointedly to discuss the points in dispute. This has been done in a favorable end is now in sight.

Mrs. Byron Cullen of Portland, Me., is passing a few days with relatives and friends in this city.

CURRENT OPINION

DEMOCRATIZING INDUSTRY

This place which the stop watch has in scientific management simply illustrates our attitude toward the workers. We are all workers, from the president of the company to the office boy and the porter and each one has to be individualized. You cannot have scientific management in one part of an establishment and not have it practically throughout. You cannot have one group of employees impose it on another group. You cannot have "fake" co-operation.

Scientific management must be relentless in seeing that each worker receives his or her reward and only for work efficiently performed. We must regulate the benefits according to the services rendered. Any system that tries to average up rewards is doomed to failure. At the same time, it is the constant aim of scientific management to organize itself so as to be able to help, in the broadest fashion, those who are temporarily or permanently below the average to be as largely productive as such far sighted assistance can make them. Yet this is not welfare work we are discussing. It is something so immeasurably superior to the best grades of welfare work that the two cannot be compared.

Again, scientific management demands the entire elimination of the military system of control. The military system, of course, we inherit from the days when everybody had to "fight for it." It was designed in order to mass one's greatest strength at a given place at a given moment of time. An industrial establishment is not operated for this purpose. What we are trying to bring about in industrial establishments is a steady, even flow of work, done under the minimum of tension and with the least possible discomfort and disorder. We find that to do work under these conditions the military system has no place and that we must functionalize.

Functional management leads ultimately to the democratization of our industries. Whether it be in the city or in the state or in the nation, we are finding out that democracy will not work with a few men controlling all operations, no matter how competent, farsighted and amiable the few may be. In an industrial establishment the doing away with the military control, and especially the functionalizing, makes every worker share, according to his ability, in the conduct of affairs. In other words, after scientific management has been introduced, the shop is run by the collective intelligence of the many, rather than under the "I say so" of those who in the language of the day, own the business.—Morris L. Cooke, of Philadelphia, in the Journal of Political Economy.

SENATOR HOLLIS IN DEBATE

Has His First Tilt With Senator Lodge

Both Were Right on the Contentions

Washington, D. C., July 28.—The senate was the scene of an incident recently which was the cause of much gratification among the Democrats of Washington, both in and out of Congress. It was a passage at arms between Senator Hollis of New Hampshire and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, in which the Granite State Junior senator came off the victor, much to the delight of the Democratic members of the senate. Their pleasure was accentuated by the fact that instance in which Senator Lodge has been made to back down have been somewhat infrequent.

The Bay State senator arose in the senate when the duty on dextrine was under consideration and found fault with the action of the senate finance committee. He then put a letter into the record to testify his attitude.

Senator Hollis secured the letter and found that it supported the committee. He then felt justified in jumping into the debate and taking a full out of the senator from Massachusetts.

The battle royal is thus described in the Congressional Record:

Mr. Hollis.—Mr. President, referring to the letter that has been placed in the record by the senator from Massachusetts, I desire to read the last paragraph. It says:

"If the duty on potato starch, the raw material is one cent per pound, and the duty on potato dextrine, the finished product is three fourths of a cent per pound, it will stultify the industry from both sides and make it utterly impossible for the industry to live."

Exactly that information was sent to me by a manufacturer in Massachusetts. I went to the subcommittee and got them to make the exact change that I suggested in this letter to the senator from Massachusetts. The duty on dextrine made from potato starch was increased to one and one half cent a pound, instead of three quarters of a cent per pound as complained in this letter. So the result is that the Massachusetts manufacturers of dextrine made from potato starch are taken care of exactly as they wished to be.

Mr. Lodge.—Mr. President, evidently the senator did not listen to what I said. The point I made was about the second mention of dextrine, made from other substances than potato starch.

Mr. Hollis.—Then I should like to inquire of the senator what is the subject of putting this letter in the record?

Mr. Lodge.—To show the testimony on which I acted.

Mr. Hollis.—But the committee has done just exactly as was suggested in the letter. The letter backs up the committee entirely.

Mr. Lodge.—Does it? Just give it to me. (Reading.)

"Therefore, in order to have a logical tariff, the duty on potato starch should be at least one half cent per pound than on dextrine and British gum."

Mr. Hollis.—And in response to that letter, or a similar letter which I received, the committee raised the tariff on dextrine made from potato starch. That action was certainly well taken, and the whole matter is cleared up.

Mr. Lodge.—They did; and the second point I made was my own and I think it is a sound one. The writer of this letter is a maker of potato starch. I thought he alluded to the second point. However, I think that I will let it stand. Mr. President, as it sustains the action of the committee and its good protectionist doctrine.

RAILROAD NOTES

Dana B. Cutler, general agent of the Boston & Maine at Lynn, was here on business today for a few hours.

Employees of Western Massachusetts Railroad Securities Co., New Haven, who are on strike, have taken a vote and leaders say that unless the owners agree to new 9 in 11 hour law, operations will be closed up. The companies declare that they cannot afford the added burden.

The Interstate Commerce Commission states that the payment of a large salary to Howard Elliott, head of the New Haven system will be frowned upon, and if reports are true that Mr. Elliott is to have $150,000 a year, the members of the commission would feel free to criticize such an expenditure.

The Boston and Maine carpenters are making repairs for the local street railway on the trestle at Little Bear's head.

The Bangor & Aroostook Ironmen have signed an agreement at the old rate of wages for one year. The strike of the engineers and firemen called in January has not been called off and the road is operated by non-union engineers and firemen.

The division locomotive works has recently received scattered orders for 11 locomotives. New orders in July thus far have been about the same as in June and are regarded by the management as quite satisfactory for this season.

The telegraph office at the Charlestown freight house of the Boston & Maine has been discontinued and all telegraph work will be done in the future through the Boston offices in

Col. and Mrs. William H. Carter of Salem, well known summer residents at Highton Beach are today observing the forty-eighth anniversary of their marriage.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS.

All dogs found on the street unmuzzled after 24 hours will be shot.

By order of THE MAYOR.

At Lanier Camp.

Saturday was "Lanier Day" and was fittingly observed with a very appropriately arranged program which began at 2:30 p. m. and consisted of the pantomime "Pictures from the Life of Sidney Lanier, the Poet," music, poems of Sidney Lanier, which have been set to music, and his personal letters were read by his wife, Mrs. Sidney Lanier. The above interesting program was followed by a supper which was held on the lawn.

Many towns and states were represented in this assemblage, the attendance being uncommonly large. Those who took advantage of this pleasurable and helpful opportunity felt well remunerated for their efforts to attend and "Lanier day," July 26, 1913, will long be remembered.

Mr. Stanley Scott of Brookline, Mass., is a guest at Lanier camp.

On Monday afternoon the little friends of Miss Doris Berry assembled at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Berry, on Foss Beach road, to help celebrate the twelfth anniversary of her birth.

The merry making commenced at 2 o'clock and continued until after 6, this all too short space of time being taken up by the enjoyment of games, contests, etc. Prizes were awarded to the Misses Mildred Tucker and Dorothy Whitehead for being the most clever participants in the contests.

When the merrymaking was at its height, the children were summoned to lunch, which was very attractive and dainty, consisting of salads, rolls, ice cream, assorted cakes and crackers. The feature of the lunch was the pretty, large birthday cake which was cut by the little hostess.

After the lunch the merry company repaired to the lawn where croquet and other outdoor games were played until time for departure, which came all too quickly for the little folks.

Little Miss Doris was the recipient of many dainty gifts, congratulations, and heartfelt wishes for many happy returns of the day.

Among those present were: Miss Mildred Tucker, Hilda Trefethen, Frances Grace, Louise Rand, Gertrude Foss, Annette Foss, Mary Davidson, Pauline Davidson, Frances Remick, Milla Dunn, Eva Dunn, Frances Knowlton, Ruth Knowlton, Helen Caswell, Dorothy Whitehead, Ruth Vardell, Hilda Berry and Hazel Berry. Miss Rebecca H. Hedges, a former teacher of the hostess, was an honorary guest.

THREE CASES OF HYDROPHOBIA CAUSES ALARM

Three Dogs Effectuated and Board of Health Orders All Dogs Muzzled.

The discovery of three cases of hydrophobia in this city on Monday has led Dr. C. E. Johnston, the chairman of the Board of Health to take precautionary measures to prevent a spread of the dreaded disease among animals.

The discovery was made by Dr. Ingalls, who was called upon to treat the animals and immediately killed them. One dog, belonging to Rufus Woods, a Boston built terrier, was first found and later a cocker spaniel belonging to James A. Rand on Mill street, was found, and still another dog later in the day.

Dr. Ingalls reported the cases immediately to Dr. Johnston of the Board of Health and he sent the head of the Woods dog to Harvard laboratory to make sure and a reply should be received within forty-eight hours.

In the meanwhile an order was issued by the Board of Health, forbidding dogs on the streets unless muzzled and this will be strictly followed.

At first it was thought that a meeting of the Mayor and Council would be necessary but Clerk Drew got in touch with Mayor Dodge who is in Concord, and he said it would not be necessary, the Board of Health had the necessary power.

The origin of the disease here is not known, but there has been several cases in Newfields and Exeter and it is possible that a dog from those towns may have bitten some of the infected dogs here. No person has been bitten and with precaution the spread of the disease will be checked. Every owner of a dog is warned that they must be kept in the house or muzzled and after twenty-four hours all animals not muzzled are liable to be killed.

PROCLAIMING HIMSELF MESSIAH

Panama, July 28. (Word has arrived here from Panama, a town in the interior of the republic, that Benigno Sanchez, a native of that section, has proclaimed himself the Messiah. He has predicted himself the destruction of the world by a deluge in a short time, and some of his eighty adherents are engaged in building an ark, while others are busy collecting in pulps, animals of all species, found in their region. The followers also have armed themselves, and in view of this fact, the Panama government is taking steps to avert possible trouble by them.

DOORS OF HOPE NEVER CLOSED

Washington, July 28. In a bulletin advocating the extension of the school system, in Federal and State prisons, the United States Bureau of Education announced today that out of 65 prisons in the United States and Canada reporting to it, 44 maintain classes in which both academic and trade subjects are taught. Mr. A. C. Hill of the New York State Education Department, who prepared the bulletin at the request of the bureau, believes the movement will be extended until every correctional institution will afford educational advantages to its involuntary guests.

"Schools in prisons," says Dr. Hill, "are the expression of the highest conception yet formed for the proper way to deal with men and women segregated from society for violation of the laws. They are an outgrowth of the belief that the door of hope must never be closed to any human being."

As an economic investment, Dr. Hill contends, society could well afford to support the schools as a reclaiming agent for those who have fallen under its ban.

KING GEORGE MAY VISIT THIS COUNTRY

London, July 28. A report from Australia that King George and Queen Mary were to lay the foundation stone of the Australian Commonwealth Parliament House at Canberra next year is discredited today by the Pall Mall Gazette, which says that Canada is to be the next British dominion visited by their majesties, and adds: "They take it for granted that while so near the United States they will cross the border, and it is thought probable they may pay a brief visit to Washington and perhaps to New York."

NOT ELIGIBLE TO DETAIL

Washington, July 28.—An Army colonel who went one of his past to the inter-earths polo match, held here recently, has found himself ineligible for his entire pay and allowances while he is in the United States. The colonel, neither Col. John C. Grosvenor nor Capt. P. D. Hilsenrath of the 10th Cavalry realized when the order was given that the latter was a "Mincho," not eligible to detail away from his regiment without incurring the penalty prescribed by the law.

This is the first case where an officer has suffered from the application of this law. There was no intent of wrong-doing, and Congress will be asked to recall the penalty.

HIS WATCH GONE

Clayton Murgido would like to hear from his gold watch which disappeared at York Beach last Sunday. Murgido with a number of other young men were mixed up in a crowd at the beach when his time piece suddenly disappeared. He is satisfied that some light fingered gent quietly relieved him of the same.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Portsmouth Household Will Find Them So

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed, to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous, urinary disorders, is enough to make and kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Portsmouth readers.

Mrs. John M. Smart, 122 Gates St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Eight or nine years ago I began to suffer from pains in the small of my back which at times changed to a dull grinding ache and if I overexerted my suffering was intensified. I felt tired nearly all the time and had but little energy. Having reason to believe that my kidneys were disordered, I began trying various remedies but without success, until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy. The contents of two boxes improved my condition in every way."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan, Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's and take no other.

GOVERNMENT MAKING MONEY OUT OF ITS FOREST RESERVES

Washington, July 28.—The Government is beginning to make the nation's forests pay for the money which has been expended in conserving them. During the fiscal year just closed, the receipts from the forests, according to figures just prepared, amounted to almost $5,500,000, the business having surpassed that of any previous year. The appropriation for forest service work during the year was about $5,500,000. In addition to the receipts mentioned, however, contracts totalling $1,000,000 were entered into for the sale of timber, to be cut either at once or in later years. Where large tracts of timber are involved, these sale contracts permit the cutting to extend over a number of years. Thirty-five per cent of the year's gross receipts or more than $300,000, according to law, goes to the benefit of the states in which the forests are situated, for schools and roads.

States Have Had $3,000,000

In 1912 the amount of money thus made available for state purposes totaled about $750,000. The state's share of national forest funds since the laws were passed has aggregated over $3,000,000. These facts are set forth, according to the forest service, because a popular impression still exists that all money received by the Government from timber sales, grazing fees, water power permits, etc., is permanently taken out of the states where it is paid and goes into the national treasury to meet the general expenses of the Government. This idea is said to prevail to some extent, even among actual forest users in the national forest states, where the division of receipts with the states has been going on for years.

Part of the gross receipts of the national forests was first made available for schools and roads when the agricultural appropriation act of June 30, 1906, directed the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the state or territory in which any forest reserve was situated ten per cent of all money received during the fiscal year from such reserve. The money was to be expended by the state or territory in the construction of public schools and roads in the counties in which the forest reserve lay. This legislation was recommended by the forest service because of the recognized burden imposed locally where national forests operate to prevent much land from becoming taxable.

In 1908 the amount to be paid to the states was increased to 25 per cent, and a proviso of the earlier act that no more should be paid to a county than 40 per cent of its total income from other sources was eliminated. Since this proviso was removed some of the counties' receipts from national forest lands have equalled their income from all other sources. In August, 1912, the agricultural appropriation act for the year made available an additional 10 per cent of the money received from national forests to build and maintain roads and trails within national forests for the benefit of the public in the states from which these proceeds are derived. This 40 per cent "road item" as it is called, is expended by the Secretary of Agriculture, who may, according to the act, "whenever practicable in the construction and maintenance of such roads, secure the cooperation or aid of the proper state or territorial authorities in the furtherance of any system of highways of which such roads may be made a part."

This provision from the receipts of the fiscal year 1912 is $207,295. This was apportioned among the states as follows: Alaska, $4675; Arizona, $21,445; Arkansas, $2283; California, $21,821; Colorado, $21,563; Florida, $581; Idaho, $23,300; Kansas, $480; Michigan, $2; Minnesota, $503; Missouri, $23,326; Nebraska, $1630; Nevada, $4034; New Mexico, $11,850; North Dakota, $28; Oklahoma, $351; Oregon, $17,023; South Dakota, $4226; Utah, $13,504; Washington, $2,758; Wyoming, $12,254.

Weeks Law Comes In

The Weeks law of March 1, 1911, providing for the acquisition of lands in the Appalachians, provides that five per cent of moneys received from each national forest into which the lands acquired are divided, be turned over to the state for its public schools and roads. New Mexico and Arizona, besides the sums before mentioned, are entitled to approximately 11 per cent of the gross proceeds of all national forests in those states in return for the state school sections within national forests. This provision is embodied in the act of June 20, 1910, authorizing the admission of the two new states.

The records show that the volume of sales contracted for in different years fluctuates widely, with ups and downs according to general business conditions, while the actual cut has shown a fairly steady tendency to advance. In the fiscal year 1906 (July 1, 1905, to June 30, 1906) the first full year after the forest service was put in charge of the forests, the timber receipts were about $260,000 in the fiscal year 1907 something less than $200,000, and in 1908 about $350,000. In 1909 timber receipts dropped back to less than $250,000, but in 1910 and again in 1911 were over $1,000,000, and in 1912 were nearly $1,000,000, as against about $1,250,000 for the year just closed.

Forestry officials say that the principal factor in determining how much timber will be sold in any given year is the general lumber market, which in turn depends largely on general business conditions. Thus, when conditions are that a period of brisk demand is ahead, with increased building activity, railroad construction, mining development, and other forms of business expansion that call for lumber or timber, operators are seeking contracts. When business falls lumbermen naturally go slowly in the matter of committing themselves by new purchases on a large scale. But cutting under earlier purchases and small sales continue even in periods of depression. The gradual diminution of outside sources of supply and the steady development of the country, which creates increased local demands, tend to offset the effects of such periods.

Fluctuation in Sales

As an illustration of this the figures for 1907 and the immediately following years are cited. In the fiscal 1907 the forest service sold more timber than has been sold in any later year prior to that just closed. Contracts covering over a billion feet, board measure. But in the fall of 1907 came business panic, followed by inactivity. Sales in 1908 dropped to less than 400 million feet, and in 1909 of less than 300 million. In both three years more timber was cut under sales than was disposed of through new sales. The difference was the result of cutting under the contracts of earlier years.

Last year's sales of over $4,000,000 worth of timber does not necessarily mean a prospective income from timber of this large amount in the immediate future. To bring this about there would have to be a series of big sale years. The present year may or may not see sales equal to those of the last. While general market conditions are at present less favorable to large commitments than they were six months ago, the aggressive sales policy now in force, with the opportunities for long-term purchases on fair terms where sales are possible in no other way, will probably counterbalance to a greater or less degree influences that may tend to check sales. The need of the country for national forest timber is growing and every year brings normally more of this timber within the radius of effective demand. The yearly cut and the income from the forests are reasonably expected to rise in the future as it has been rising, however the number of sales contracts may fluctuate.

GOVERNOR AND COUNCIL HOLD HEARING ON STATE HIGHWAY

A meeting of the Governor and Council was held in Concord on Monday afternoon and the greater part of the time was taken up with a hearing of the lay out from Manchester to the Massachusetts state line, through the towns of Londonderry, Derry, Winthrop and Salem.

The people of Londonderry were the first to be heard, and they were represented by R. W. Pillsbury, who advocated the Mammoth road as the proper route for the proposed highway to run from the Londonderry line to Derry. He stated that so far as the outlet from Manchester was concerned, it was immaterial to him, as well as to those he represented, the same, and that he thought it was the only proper and feasible route that could be selected.

The advocates of the Nul road and Mammoth road were given a hearing after the Londonderry people had concluded. Princeton W. H. Huse of the Hallsville school was one of the speakers for the Mammoth road, and he pointed out that this route would accommodate the largest number of people and said that if the question was to be decided upon its merits, and not on the arguments of paid attorneys and "political pull," why there was no doubt as to the outcome. That the route by the Mammoth road was much more pleasant, and the entrance to the city was much better, and would give visitors a much clearer idea of the advantages of Manchester than by the Nul road. Leroy M. Sorester, and Fred Lovering also spoke along the same general lines, in the interest of the Mammoth road.

The matter was finally left to hold a hearing in Manchester next Friday. Governor Feltner stated during the day that no police commissioners' appointments would be made until after Aug. 15th. The Council were in conference over the many other appointments to be made, including the liquor commissioners. The Council will meet again today.

FIRST PACKAGE BY PARCEL POST NOW A RELIC

Washington, July 28.—Among the latest additions to the collection of historic relics in the National Museum, the silver loving cup commemorative of the opening of the parcel post system was given a prominent place today. It was in the first package to go through the mails under the new system, and was mailed by Postmaster General Hitchcock on the first day of the present year to Postmaster Morgan at New York city. The cup bears the following inscription:

"This cup was the first article sent by the parcel post in the United States. It was forwarded to Postmaster Morgan at New York city by Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, who mailed it in person at the Washington City Postoffice immediately after midnight on the morning of Jan. 1, 1913. Presented to the National Museum by Postmaster Morgan. The cup is eight inches high and is double handled. It is severely plain."

SECRETARY DANIELS HAS PERILOUS TRIP

Portland, Ore., July 28.—Because of a burned bridge, Sec. of the Navy Daniels, Mrs. Daniels and Gov. West of Oregon groped their way across a canyon near Leavenworth, on a sliding on the Southern Pacific, 22 miles north of Roseburg, about 10 last night.

They made the crossing by the light of lanterns' lanterns. The gulch is about 50 feet deep and 125 feet wide.

A FISH STORY.

Whales, Size Not Given, Pursue Motor Boat Off Hampton.

After a sensational experience in escaping from the attack of two large whales off Hampton beach Sunday, Rodman Philbrick of Indianapolis and A. M. Remick and Raphael V. Vega of New York city, who made the trip from the metropolis in a 23-foot boat, are guests of the Haverhill Yacht club.

They were riding along bound for Haverhill from Portsmouth, N. H., Sunday afternoon when the whales suddenly hove in sight, but when it seemed as if the sea monsters would tempt directly for the boat they turned their course and disappeared. Messrs. Philbrick, Remick and Vega left New York city about three weeks ago in their motor boat, proceeding to Portland, Me., from which place they went to Portsmouth and Rye beach. The parents of Mr. Philbrick and Mr. Remick have summer homes at Rye beach and they are making their headquarters there until about Sept. 1. Messrs. Philbrick, Remick and Vega were royally entertained by the members of the Haverhill yacht club, they remarking yesterday afternoon that they had never been so well used in their travels as in Haverhill. Their motorboat is fully equipped for sleeping purposes and has room for provisions if necessary on their trips.—Haverhill Gazette.

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE PROGRAMME

For Monday and Tuesday

"The Ne'er to Return Road"—Globe in two parts. A fine drama written by Mrs. Otto Sklar. A man finds his wife in a dance hall with another man. A shot—and the intruder falls dead by his own hand. The husband gets a life term, escapes, and staggers, half dead from exposure, into the home of the dead adventurer's mother. What did the mother do?

Act—Jack Fine. Roller skating, dancing act.

"Pathe's Weekly No. 32"

Giving you all the latest and most interesting happenings of the week. The best and largest film of this kind. Act—The Carter and Dora Musical Novelty.

"The Greed of Osman Bey"—Edison. A remarkable presentation of an Oriental love story preserving an atmosphere that is striking by effective Osman's greed nearly ruins the happiness of his daughter.

And one other feature real that will be announced later.

A Sea Dogs Love—Biograph

A good comedy, warmed by stings of all his proposals. He longs for the excitement of the shore and he certainly gets it.

The Naisy Suitors—Biograph

Is another comedy on the same reel. She chose the one that made the less noise.

SPECIAL—Wednesday and Thursday

"The Weaker Mind"—Lubin, in two parts.

POLICE NEWS.

What Are You Doing With My Wife?

There was a bit of excitement on State street on Monday when a woman once more figured in the trouble. Two young men, both strangers, were walking home with two women who they claimed they met at a picture house. One of the two appears to have been in bad. While passing a dark spot a big husky gent came out of an alley and after asking "What are you doing with my wife?" he said to have landed one on the jaw of the man whom he addressed. The woman and the man absconded took it on the run up the street. Later the man came back and ordered Officer Robinson to place him under arrest. The case was heard before Judge Turley in the district court this forenoon.

The defendant, Herbert Chesley was fined $300 and costs of $7.67. The plaintiff was Hector Baldwin.

Going to Arrest Them All

Warrants were issued today for eight boys who were engaged with three others in the breaking and entering of Benfield's store on Austin street several days ago. The boys all belong in Lynn and warrants for them will be placed in the hands of the Lynn police, half of them will have to be heard in the juvenile court.

Big Haul at Lynn

The local police today received a list of jewelry stolen at Lynn on Monday which is valued at over $1000. The most of the jewelry was in stones, rings, watches, and neck chains.

Chief Smith Looks Him Over

Chief of Police Smith was at the police headquarters today where he interviewed Frank Dwyer who is held on suspicion of watch stealing. The Hampton officer was satisfied that Dwyer knew nothing of the robbery made at Hampton recently.

Here is neckwear that typifies the season—in other words—seasonable neckwear. A fine display of it, too. Bountiful in variety—"classy" in character.

In "tub" ties (washable ones) we have our usual smart line of "quarter ones." This line embraces "all the colors of the rainbow" and "then some." We have recently had "closed out" to us by a big maker of summer neckwear a splendid line of high-grade "tubs" which we are offering at 35c for one—3 for $1.00.

We show many novelties in the new "wide-ends." "Bat" lies in an innumerable variety of solid colors.
